

March 20th, 2017

Dear Senators:

As retired officers and veterans of the U.S. Military we urge you to vote against S. J. Res 11, the Congressional Review Act resolution that would roll back the U.S. Bureau of Land Management's (BLM) Methane Waste and Prevention Rule. This extreme measure would not only rescind the BLM rule, it could stifle the agency from taking future similar action.

America's energy security and the responsible development of our natural resources go hand-in-hand. Unfortunately, hundreds of millions of dollars-worth of natural gas is wasted through the deliberate venting and flaring of methane (the primary component of natural gas) and through leaky equipment and infrastructure. For example, in 2013 about \$330 million dollars-worth of natural gas was wasted on public and tribal lands. That is enough natural gas to meet the heating and cooking needs of Montana, Utah, and Wyoming combined – or about 1.5 million homes in America.

Even though that natural gas is owned by the American taxpayer, the BLM does not assess a royalty on natural gas that is wasted through flaring, venting, and leaks. That means tens of millions of dollars in royalty revenue is lost that would have gone to local, state, federal and tribal governments to fund infrastructure projects such as roads and bridges, hospitals, schools, and more. And if the Senate passes a Congressional Review Act resolution targeting the BLM rule, much of that waste will continue, costing taxpayers tens of millions of dollars every year.

Natural gas waste also has critical implications on America's role as a leader in fostering energy security and freedom worldwide.

Today, Russia has a stranglehold on natural gas markets from Italy to Germany to the Ukraine. Thanks to our vast reserves in shale gas, the U.S. is poised to become more and more of a world leader in natural gas exports. We should be using that energy to free countries from the grip of Russia – not letting that natural gas go up in flames.

Most importantly, it is simply unconscionable that we allow oil and gas companies to waste America's energy resources from public lands while we continue to put our soldiers in harm's way in energy-producing countries in the Middle East.

Again, we urge you to reject S. J. Res 11 so we can ensure the responsible development of our energy resources, the protection of taxpayers, and our role in the world on energy security.

Very sincerely,

Major General, USA (ret.) Paul Eaton
Lieutenant General, USAF (ret.) Norm Seip
